

Philip Beesley

Philip Beesley graduated from the University of Toronto in 1986. He is an Assistant Professor at the University of Waterloo School of Architecture, and runs his own practice in Toronto. Beesley's Prix de Rome work looked at the Roman ground as an animated terrain of woven wire and outstretched guides that interact with the surroundings.

